+ Description

Located in the forest south of Leutenheim, it is one of five large concrete surface shelters (37 m x 17 m) built in 1932 on the eastern edge of the Haguenau forest. Its mission was to protect the gap between the neighbouring shelters of the Donau and Soufflenheim. 60 men were housed there and its kitchen allowed the preparation of 180 rations, i.e. the occupants and the interval troops of the surroundings. Open on May 1st, Whit Sunday and Monday, 1st Sunday of July-August-September (see with the commune of Leutenheim).
